

Film House adds two new staff members

(NASHVILLE) July 23, 2007 – Film House, the largest film production company in Tennessee and one of the largest producers of TV commercials in the country, recently added two new staff members.

Eric Stars

Eric Stars comes to Film House from MMA Creative, bringing more than three years of professional experience as a graphic designer. Stars will provide graphics, film and animation work for the Film House series of award-winning public service announcements produced for the American Forces Radio and Television Service (AFRTS). Stars will also provide graphics design support for feature films produced by Film House wholly-owned subsidiary, Transcendent.

Alison Baker joins the Film House team to assist with script coverage and serve as receptionist. Baker studied at the Los Angeles Film Studies Center and most recently worked as post-production assistant on the television series “Nashville Star.” Baker has three years experience working in television, film and music video production. In her script coverage work with Film House, Baker will review feature film scripts for Transcendent.

About Film House

Film House (www.filmhouse.com) is Tennessee’s largest production company producing hundreds of TV commercials and long form projects annually. Transcendent, a wholly-owned subsidiary, produces independent features such as “No Regrets” starring Janine Turner and Kate Jackson, and “Two Weeks” starring two time Academy Award winner Sally Field. Transcendent’s current project is “Jubilee,” based on the remarkable true story of Ella Sheppard and the original Fisk Jubilee Singers, who introduced the Negro Spirituals to the world in 1871.
